

Have you ever wanted to have some sort of routine check-up, something more comprehensive or more frequent than you would expect the NHS to deliver? If so, you will have found that in the past your GP has been unable to help you, even in his/her own time, due to the restrictive nature of the bureaucratic regulations. You are either left with practically no choice or the prospect of paying very expensive fees at private clinics or hospitals.

However, doctors are allowed to do them if requested by an outside agency.

GPMedicals is an independent commercial organisation and is now able to arrange such private examinations directly with your GP.

You pay a small arrangement fee of £4.99 to GPMedicals, who then send you official authorisation requesting your doctor to carry out the examination. You can make a suitable appointment with your doctor after discussing your requirements (which can be flexible, tailored to your own preferences) and the medical fees (which are much less expensive than private clinics). After your examination a full report will be sent to you.

To take advantage of this facility, we recommend you pay the fee securely on line at gpmedicals.co.uk

Alternatively complete this form and enclose a cheque payable to GPMedicals.

Please request my general practitioner to perform a private examination for me and produce a medical report.
